portfolio

about me

I am not an engineer who has been writing C# or Java since I was 5. I am an engineer who picks things up quickly and who solves problems. While I may make the same mistake twice, I probably won't make it a third time.

Currently, I am a sophomore at the Olin College of Engineering in Needham, Massachusetts. I am working on an Electrical and Computer Engineering major.

I am incredibly excited about opportunities to work in the fields of project management, software development, and electrical engineering.
